1. The first part of the document is a letter from the President of the United States to the Congress, dated January 1, 1861. It is a very important document, as it sets out the President's policy on the secession of the Southern States. The President states that he is bound by the Constitution to preserve the Union, and that he will do so by all lawful means.

2. The second part of the document is a report from the Secretary of the Interior, dated January 1, 1861. It contains information about the land and mineral resources of the United States, and about the progress of the survey of the public lands.

3. The third part of the document is a report from the Secretary of the Treasury, dated January 1, 1861. It contains information about the public debt, and about the progress of the collection of the public revenues.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

Many persons within the Goodelle family, and others as well, have assisted in compiling this information.

Our grateful thanks . . .

To Harry Goodelle of Weedsport, New York, my wife's uncle, for remembering that his sister, Emma McKinney, had the Goodelle family Bible. Without the material found in the Bible, this work would never have been started.

To Tracy McKinney of Geneva, New York, who had carefully kept the Bible.

To Ruth Olmstead of Ithaca, New York, who gathered the information from the family Bible and to her mother and uncle for supplying names of towns and information about the ancestry of James Monroe Goodell, in order to make this possible.

To Mrs. Harry Beardsley of Auburn, New York,

To Mrs. Norman Brown of Union Springs, New York,

To Mrs. Byron Hedges of Auburn, New York, for their research work.

To Mrs. Aaron Goodale, Jr., of West Boylston, Mass., for the loan of the Goodale Genealogy, prepared by Leon Goodale, a splendid coverage of the family history. I am also indebted to her son, Aaron, for having informed me of the existence of this genealogy, as I found it checked accurately with records found in libraries and from letters received from town clerks, etc.

And . . . To my wife, Helen Baker Goodelle Thrall, for answering from memory many questions, without knowing this genealogy was being prepared for her.

The information contained herein about the first three generations of the Goodale family in America, as we have listed them, comes from the records found in historical genealogies of the families of Old Salem and Marlboro, with interesting bits taken from the histories of Salem and Marlboro.

Many other reference sources were used in checking the first five generations:

History of Salem, Mass.

By Sidney Perley

Felt's Annals of Salem

History of the Town of Shrewsbury

By Andrew Ward

Hudson's History of Marlborough

By Charles Hudson

History of Fulton, New York, 6th & 7th Gen.

Also the Vital Records of over thirty towns in New England and New York State, found in the Boston Public Library, the New England Historic Genealogical Society Library, and the Albany State Library.

The Name

The name was spelled "Goodale" — "Goodell" — "Goddell" — and "Goodall" in recording, by town clerks, assessors, ministers and army adjutants, but the family seems to have used "Goodale" until the time of James Monroe Goodell, his brother and sister.

In the West Boylston, Massachusetts, cemetery, there are large marble gravestones of the family. In one plot there are five stones, on which are the following inscriptions:

"Ezra Goodale who died Oct. 15, 1861
Ae 71 years, and Sena Perry his wife."

Eighteen inches from this stone is the grave of Ezra and Sena's daughter and her grave is marked:

"Jane Amanda Goodell"
1821-1903

Next in the same family plot is:

Erected in Memory of Mr. Moses Perry
Who died Dec. 7, 1843
Aged 85 years
and of Hannah Perry his wife
Who died Mar. 23, 1843
Aged 84 years

Next is:

"Jane Rice, wife of R.B.T. Goodell,
Died Feb. 10, 1893,
Ae 69 yrs, 5 months, 10 days."

Last is the gravestone of:

"R.B.T. Goodell died
Oct. 1, 1880
Ae 57 yrs, 11 months"

It would appear that all three children of Ezra Goodale changed the spelling of the name to "Goodell."

James Monroe Goodell's ancestors had lived in or near West Boylston (a typical New England village) for well over a hundred years. Many Goodales are buried there.

There is a large granite monument marking the Goodale plot, with inscriptions on all four sides. On the north side is engraved the following:

"Charles and Aaron sons of Aaron, Jr.
son of Aaron, Sr.
son of Edward son of Zachariah
son of Robert Goodale embarked at Ipswich, England with Catherine, his wife,
April, 1634."

James Monroe Goodell was the grandson of Aaron Goodale, Sr., mentioned on the monument. Therefore we have taken James and Emily as the ones who officially took the name "Goodell."

(Osceola Goodelle apparently added the final "e" used by his descendants.)

This genealogy has been compiled for the five generations of descendants of James Monroe Goodell who moved to Central New York State in 1855.

FIRST GENERATION IN AMERICA

Robert Goodale, born 1604, Ipswich, Eng.

1st wife, Catherine, in England

2nd wife, Margaret Lazenby — no issue.

Children by Catherine

1. Mary, born 1629, married John Pease
2. Abraham, born 1631
3. Isaac, born 1633, married Patience Cook on Jan. 25, 1668-9
4. Jacob, baptized Jan. 9, 1641
5. Elizabeth, born 1640
6. Sarah, married John Bachelder of Wenham, May 4, 1666
7. Hannah, baptized Aug. 6, 1645, married Lot Killam
8. Zachariah, born 1639, married Elizabeth Beauchamp, born 1648

The History of Salem, Mass., by Sidney Perley, starting on Page 246 of Vol. 1, states:

"Robert Goodale came here from Ipswich, England, in the ship Elizabeth in 1634. He was thirty years of age and lived in the field northeasterly of Cold Spring, in North Salem. His descendants have principally lived in the Danvers and Peabody portions of original Salem and have been farmers and mechanics. Many of them have become pioneers in new settlements."

Genealogical information of the Goodell family in the History of Old Salem, states: "Robert Goodale, born about 1604, married Catherine, second Margaret Lazenby of Exeter, New Hampshire in 1669. He died in 1683."

In the Annals of Salem by Joseph B. Felt, Page 168, the name of Robert Goodale is listed with early settlers. This group was listed in 1651 and states: "Robert Goodale — land grant 1637." Also, "Cold Spring was so called in 1793. It was known as "Goodale's Spring" as early as 1658 because Robert Goodale owned it and lived on the land nearby. He had a land grant of 20 acres.

There are many references to Robert Goodale and his sons in the early records of Salem and Lynn. The Goodale boat is mentioned in several early skirmishes with the Indians.

In Savage's Genealogical Dictionary of New England, it states "There are three known Goodales who came from England to New England before the year 1700."

1. Robert Goodale came from Ipswich, Eng., to Salem, Mass., in the year 1634.

2. Richard Goodale came from Yarmouth County, England in 1638 and settled in Salisbury. He died in 1660, leaving at least two sons — Richard and Allen. ✓

3. Joseph Goodale came to Boston. The only information about him is notice of his 2nd marriage in 1681 to Sarah.

SECOND GENERATION

Apparently the date of Zachariah's birth was not recorded, as he is listed with the children of Robert Goodale, without date of birth or baptism. But the History of Marlboro included a genealogy of the Goodale family, and gives a list of Robert Goodale's children, listing Zachariah as born in 1639. All eleven children of Zachariah and Elizabeth (Beauchamp) Goodale, were born in Salem.

Zachariah	Born February 9, 1667
Samuel	Born December 3, 1669
Joseph	Born September 23, 1672
Mary	Born November 27, 1674
Thomas	Born December 30, 1676
Abraham	Born November 7, 1678
John	Born August 10, 1681
Elizabeth	Bapt. March 23, 1689-90
Sarah	Bapt. March 23, 1689-90
Benjamin	Born July 4, 1687
David	Born March 1, 1689

On October 18, 1667, Zachariah was one of the signers of a petition presented to the General Court requesting that heads of families living in the West town (some 5 miles outside the village of Salem) be excused from military watch duty, as it was a worry and a danger to their homes and families when no man was there to guard them. It is a long document, but gives a good picture of how scattered the cleared land was, and of the constant fear of Indian thefts and attacks.

Zachariah's wife, Elizabeth Beauchamp, was the daughter of Edward Beauchamp, who is mentioned on the following page.

THIRD GENERATION

Benjamin Goodale (Goodell), 1687-1754, of Marlboro, Mass., married Hannah Gary 1688-1754.

Children of Benjamin and Hannah:

Elizabeth, born Feb. 26, 1711

Married Apr. 30, 1730 — Ebenezer

Phineas, born May 1, 1713

Married 1733 Rebecca Bruce of Woburn

Edward, born May 23, 1715

Married Sarah Temple

R: In Shrewsbury

Hannah, born May 3, 1717

Married John Tainter

Mary, born Apr. 30, 1719

Married Josiah Howe

Ruth, born July 10, 1721

Married Apr. 16, 1741 Joseph Gary, Princeton

Benjamin, born May 7, 1723 — died young

Sarah, born July, 1726

Married Aaron Gary, Princeton

Benjamin, 2nd, born Oct. 7, 1728

The records of Woodstock, Connecticut state:

"Hannah Gary, born February 6, 1688, daughter of Nath. Gary, married Benjamin Goodell on May 21, 1711 at Pomfret, Conn. (Pomfret is near Woodstock, Conn.)

EDWARD BEAUCHAMP

(Father of Elizabeth, who married Zachariah Goodale)

Edward Beauchamp lived in Salem, Mass., except from 1645-1661 when he lived in Lynn. He married first, Mary. She died in March, 1667-8, married second, Elizabeth Metcalf, November 8, 1670. Edward died about 1682, his wife died January 16, 1686.

Children were:

Samuel, born Oct. 31, 1641, died Nov. 20, 1661.

Mary, baptized Sept. 10, 1643, died young.

Mary, baptized June 27, 1646, died Mar. 1667-8.

Elizabeth, baptized July 9, 1648, married Zachariah Goodale.

Next to the general managers of the affairs of the town, the constable was the most important officer. He had to preserve the peace and perform other duties at various times. A staff was the emblem of his office before 1647.

The first known constable in Salem was John Woodbury in 1630. Edward Beauchamp was constable in 1640.

Selectmen and constables were chosen by the freemen of the town.

When differences with the French in Quebec became very tense, some of the descendants of Edward Beauchamp, who was a Huguenot, changed their name to Beachum.

FOURTH GENERATION

Edward Goodel (or Goodale) born in Marlboro, Mass., May 23, 1715 and died in Shrewsbury, Mass., in 1760 at the age of 45. He married Sarah Temple of Shrewsbury, who outlived him by fifty years.

The West Boylston Records state, "Sarah, widow of Edward Goodale, died March 7, 1810, age 96 years."

Hudson's "History of Marlboro states: "There is scarcely a family in town whose record is more confused than the Temples."

Edward and Sarah's children, all born in Shrewsbury, were:

Moses, born Sept. 9, 1739

Elizabeth, born Mar. 13, 1741

Married Robert Smith, Dec. 16, 1767

Aaron, born Jan. 6, 1743

Married Eunice Marshall Nov. 12, 1767

Peter, born 1745, died 1746 infancy

Paul, born Mar. 9, 1746

Peter 2nd, born Dec. 12, 1751

Married Abigail Hinds

Edward and Sarah (Temple) Goodale of Marlboro, Mass., were married and became pioneer settlers of Shrewsbury in 1738.

They located their home in the northwest corner of the former extensive Shrewsbury township at the Holden town line of that period. We know the location of their primitive home to be now the Wachusett Country Club, West Boylston, and that the dwelling itself was on the southerly side of the highway, just east of the easterly driveway into the present clubhouse.

Death struck down Edward at the early age of forty-five. He was buried in the Boylston Cemetery nearly twenty years before the outbreak of the American Revolution, and about fifty years before any public cemetery was established in the West Boylston area. This accounts for his lone gravestone in the Boylston Cemetery, since his wife, Sarah, who survived him for some fifty years, is buried in the West Boylston Cemetery with four of her sons.

Note is made that Edward's original gravestone had so far wasted away after a lapse of one hundred and forty years, that in 1897, his great grandson, Aaron Goodale 3rd, erected a substantial granite headstone in its place.

When Edward died, Sarah became the guardian of their six children, assuming the direction and management of them until they arrived at the age when they might legally act for themselves. She retained the farm and by her industry and economy, she was enabled to award each of her children their just proportion of their father's estate. Three of her sons were Minute Men in the American Revolution.

FIFTH GENERATION

Aaron Goodale 1st was born in Shrewsbury, Mass., Jan. 6, 1743. He died in West Boylston, Mass., Aug. 17, 1817. The intent to marry Eunice Marshall of Holden, Mass., was filed in Shrewsbury, June 27, 1767. They were married on Nov. 12, 1767. Eunice was the daughter of William Marshall. She died Jan. 17, 1831, age 84.

Their children, all born in Shrewsbury, Mass., were:

Eunice, born 1769

Married Phineas Ball of Holden

Lois, born 1770

Married Jonathan Wilder, Barre, Vt.

Edward, born 1772

Sarah, born 1773

Married Daniel Prouty

Elizabeth, born 1775

Married Jos. Thompson, Barre, Vt., on Jan. 7, 1796

Lucy, born 1777

Married Sam Rood of Bloomfield, Vt., on Jan. 30, 1800

Aaron, born 1779

Married Mehitable (Hattie) Blake, Jan. 17, 1805

Hannah, born 1782

Abel, born 1785

Married Grace Merrifield of Holden on Nov. 26, 1804

Ezra, born 1789

Married Sena Perry of Holliston, on Apr. 1, 1813

Aaron 1st had four children when he answered the Lexington Alarm. This service was of short duration. He had two more children before he marched to Hadley, August 21, 1777 under Capt. John Maynard on the BENNINGTON ALARM.

Aaron 1st and Eunice Marshall settled on a farm in early life, which they continued to occupy as long as they lived. It is the first one on Malden Street, known as the Edward's property. It was long owned and occupied by Aaron Goodale 1st's grandson, Charles Goodale, and later by the family of Charles' niece, Sarah Goodale Boynton. The original farm house was a few hundred feet southerly of the present farm house which was subsequently constructed by Charles Goodale.

It is understood that the sons of Aaron 1st and Eunice developed into robust built men. The Rev. Joseph W. Cross, pastor of the West Boylston Congregational Church 1840-1859, in speaking of the excellent physical appearance of Ezra Goodale, said "Men six feet in height are made for other men to look up to."

Only three of Aaron's eleven children lived to reach the allotted three score years and ten.

Also that all four of those children who settled in Barre, Vermont, died before reaching forty-five years of age.

SIXTH GENERATION

Ezra, son of Aaron 1st was the only one of the eleven children of Aaron and Eunice to be born in Boylston, Mass., after it was set off from Shrewsbury. Ezra was born Jan. 24, 1789 and died in Worthington, Indiana, on Oct. 18, 1861.

Ezra was something of a "Flagstaff," and his interest in "good ale" perhaps motivated Senna's and the children's interest in "Goodell." But Rev. James H. Fitts once wrote "even the best of choirs have their fluctuations — sometimes it was full and sometimes Ezra Goodale and Adaline King sang alone."

The best thing Ezra did was to marry Marsena Perry. They were married April 1, 1813. Sena was respected by the community, and her children well brought up. Sena was the daughter of Moses Perry and the grand-daughter of Col. Abner Perry of Holliston, Mass.

The children of Ezra and Sena (Perry) Goodale, all born in West Boylston, were:

1. James Monroe, born July 13, 1819
2. Jane Amanda, born Jan. 12, 1821
3. Robert Bailey Thomas, born Oct. 28, 1822

Col. Abner Perry was a person of considerable importance in his time. The line of descent and some facts about him are set down on the next two pages.

John Perry from Medfield, Mass., had a home lot assigned to him in 1679 (in Holliston) under the plain in S. where the late Samuel Leland resided. Was rated for the Indian title 1686, was Selectman 1692-93, and died prior to 1715.

Col. Abner Perry served as selectman in Holliston during 1762-64-66-68-71-73-77-78-80-82-86-98.

As a Representative to the General Court in 1775-6-7-8 and 9.

Official record of a ballot by House of Representatives dated Feb. 1, 1776 said:

SEVENTH GENERATION

1. James Monroe Goodell
2. Jane Amanda Goodell
3. Robert Bailey Thomas Goodell

3. Robert Bailey Thomas Goodell, an expert blacksmith, was named after the founder of "The Old Farmer's Almanac." He was the second son of Ezra and Sena (Perry) Goodale. Born in West Boylston on October 28, 1822, died on October 1, 1880. Married on December 5, 1844 to Jane Rice Chaffin of Holden. She was born on September 1, 1823, and died on February 10, 1893. She was the daughter of Royal H. and Betsy (Rice) Chaffin. The children of R. B. Thomas and Jane (Chaffin) Goodell were:

Jane-Jennette Goodell (Nettie J.)

Born in Boylston on Oct. 28, 1847

She married Frank A. Fletcher.

Eva — born in Clinton, Mass.

Died early

Maud — born in Lowell, Mass.

Died early

2. Jane Amanda Goodell was the only daughter of Ezra and Sena (Perry) Goodale. She was born in West Boylston on January 12, 1821, and died there on April 18, 1903. She never married, but made a home for her mother as long as the latter lived.

1. James Monroe Goodell was, of course, named after President Monroe, and was brought up in West Boylston. He married Emily Kingsbury from a well-known New Hampshire family, whose direct line is listed on the following page. Emily was obviously a wise and understanding woman and a good manager.

It is impossible to tell whether it was Emily's family who encouraged James Monroe to move to Central New York, as we do not know who moved there first, or whether Emily and James Monroe moved there, then were followed by the Kingsbury family.

SEVENTH GENERATION

1. James Monroe Goodell, first son of Ezra and Sena (Perry) Goodale, was born in West Boylston, Mass., July 13, 1819 and died in Union Spring, N. Y., May 2, 1901.

James Monroe was called "Monroe" by his West Boylston relatives, and he continued to live near West Boylston until 1855 when he removed to Sterling, N. Y.

A year later, he moved to Hannibal, where he lived for thirty years. He entered the Civil War in 1862 and was in many important battles. He lost an arm at Cold Harbor, Virginia in 1864. It is said that only his wife coming to nurse him saved his life.

He was much interested in history and was rated a fine raconteur.

On January 18, 1848, he married Emily H. Kingsbury of Plainfield, New Hampshire. Emily was a great personage and was held in high regard by her sons, daughters and grandchildren.

The children of James Monroe and Emily (Kingsbury) Goodell are:

Osceola Goodell stood well over six feet, a very erect and dignified man with a generous smile. He was a "Yankee horse trader" by nature, a second David Harum.

He always conducted his own business. For many years he dealt in scrap metals in Central New York State, and had yards in Auburn, Watertown, Syracuse, Geneva, and probably others as well.

In later years he went into real estate, built and sold a number of small homes in and around Orlando, Florida.

He was a Free Mason, and interested in civic affairs.

The last few years of his life were spent in Sennett, New York, where I visited him many times. He always seemed in excellent health until stricken with a heart attack at the age of 78 while buying postage stamps in the Sennett Post Office. He died a few minutes later.

Ella Julia Rice, his wife, was born in Fulton, N. Y., on Oct. 2, 1854, and died in Geneva, N. Y., on Dec. 8, 1915. She was the daughter of Eber G. C. Rice, a carpenter and builder, who lived all his life in Fulton. Eber Rice was very much interested in the Union cause and at 50 years of age, went to the local enlistment office to enlist, but was told they did not want a man of his age in the Army. He went home, dyed his hair, went to the city of Oswego, enlisted and went off to the Civil War

The following is a list of the names of the children of James Monroe and his wife, Mary, who were born in the town of Martville, N. Y., and who were living in 1878. The names of the children are given in the order in which they were born. The names of the children who were living in 1878 are given in italics. The names of the children who were dead in 1878 are given in plain type.

He married young, and had ten children. Like his father, he was an able businessman, but not inclined to working for others. He worked for George Sanborne for a short time, but while still a young man, he entered the real estate business and for many years was one of the leading realtors of Central New York. He was a specialist in timber lands and farms, but also promoted several home developments.

On March 22, 1899 in Auburn, New York, he married Edith Baker, born in Auburn on October 22, 1876, one of eight daughters of William and Julia Baker.

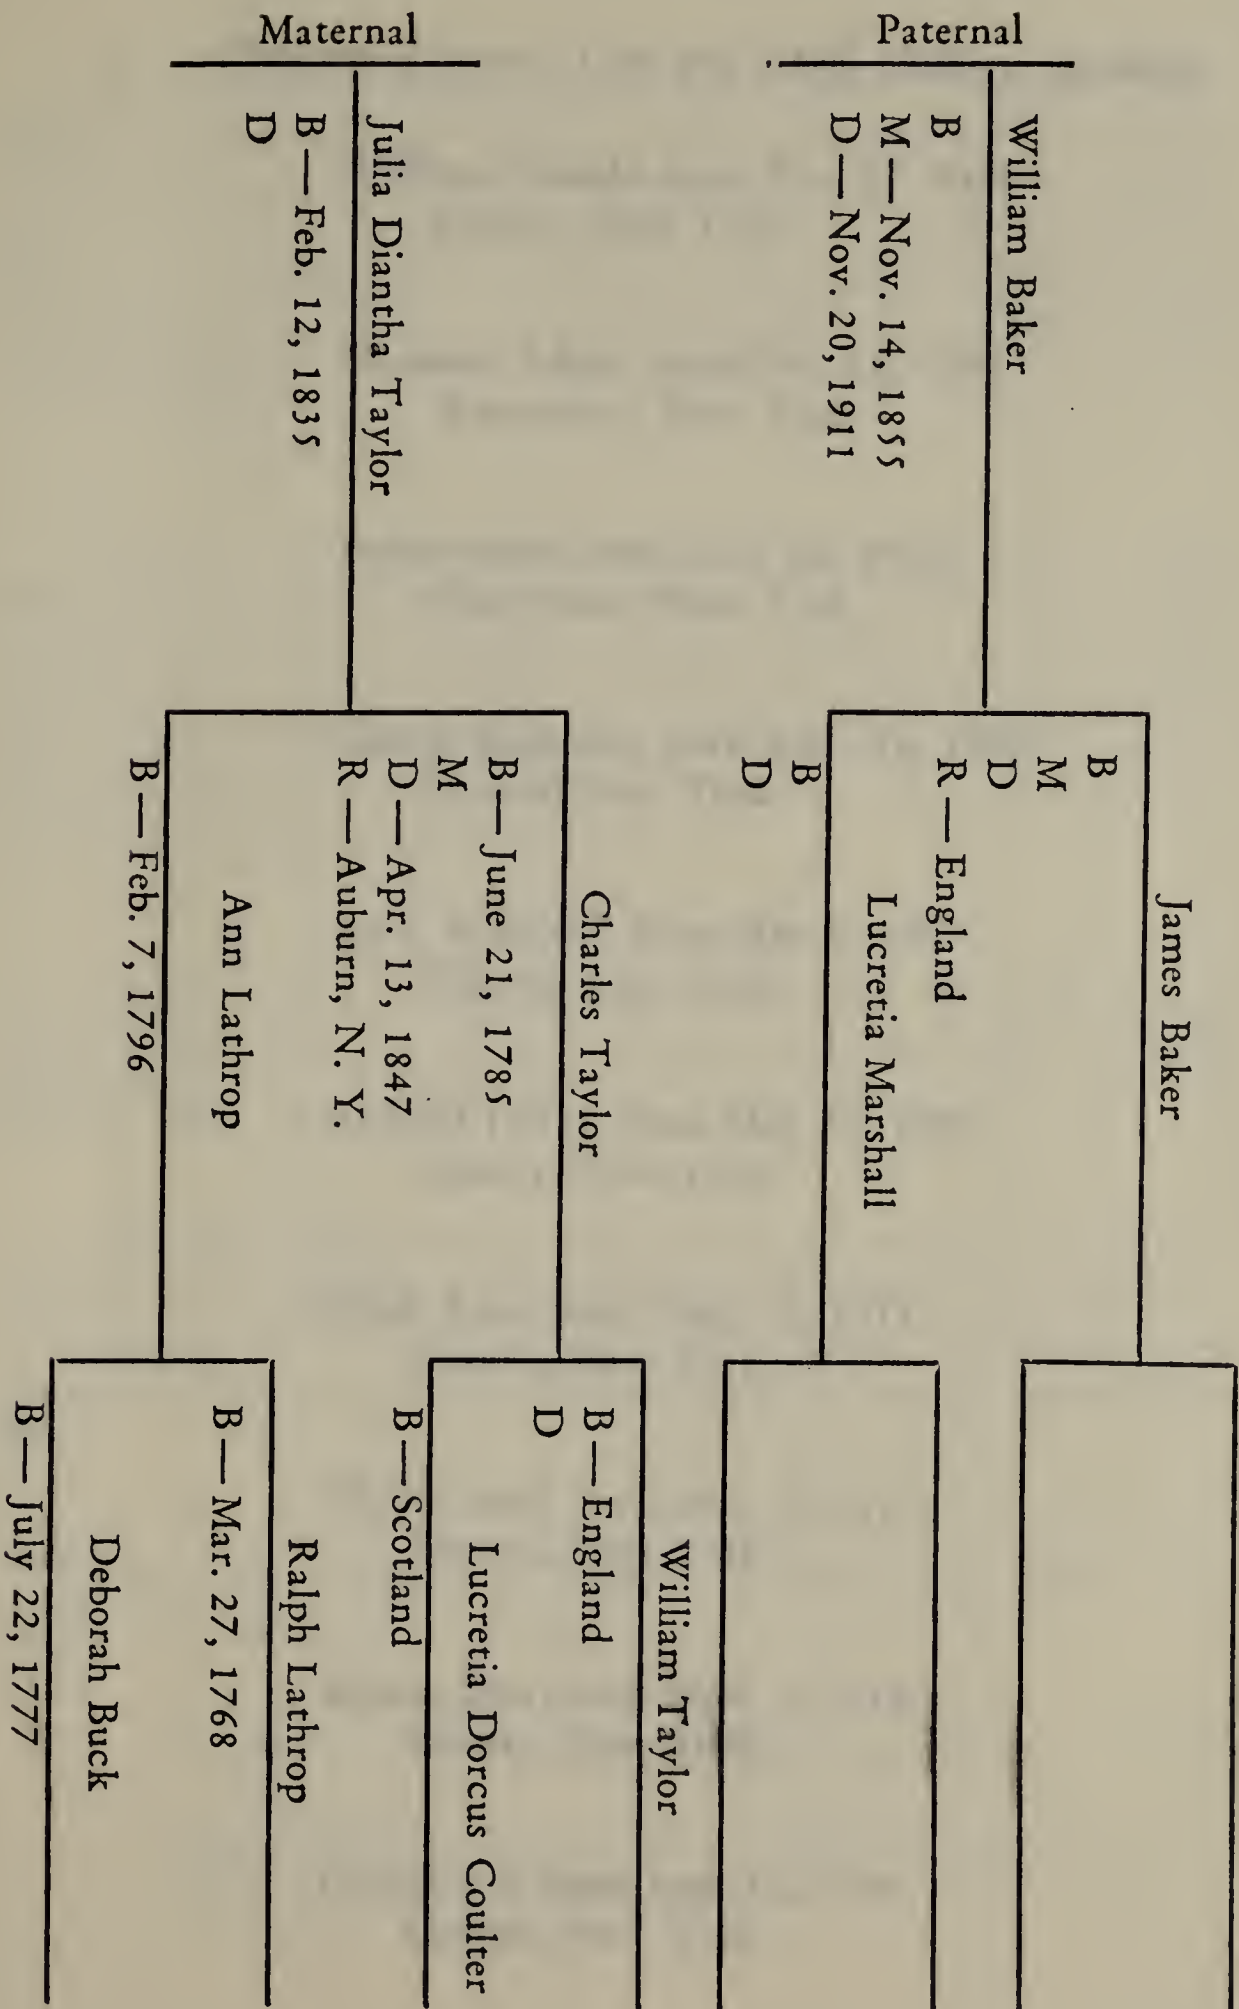

William Baker, born in England, came to Auburn as a young man. He was a man of fine manners and good taste. All his eight daughters were married. His wife, Julia Taylor, was the daughter of Dr. Charles Taylor of Auburn.

GEORGE AND EDITH GOODELLE

Lived less than a year in Worcester, Mass., while George sold coffee for George Sanborne, his uncle. They then moved to Watertown, where he ran a scrap iron business for his father. Two or three years later they moved to Geneva, where they lived in a beautiful 20-room house on Seneca Lake for over twenty years. After their children were grown they moved to Auburn. This last move was made about 1930.

In searching the records of the Goodelle family, I came across many interesting people about whom something should have been written, but time becomes a factor, and having a business to run, I could not devote the necessary time, and I had set August 22, 1957 as the deadline.

For example, something should have been said about Oliver Kingsbury, of Plainfield, Mass., who was a soldier in the French and Indian War, and died returning home from the campaign in 1760.

Major Daniel Buck, who was the grandfather of Ann Lathrop Taylor. Daniel Buck was born in New Milford, Conn., on Feb. 27, 1737, and died April 13, 1814. He served in the Colonial War as a private, in the 11th Company 4th Regiment, Levy of 1758 under Captain Joseph Canfield. Later as Major in the 17th Regiment, King's District, Albany County, New York Militia.

Some mention should be made of William Taylor and his wife Lady Dorkas Coulter, who came to this country in a Merchant Vessel, where Captain and crew were stricken with smallpox and Taylor was selected to bring the ship into port.

Also there were many women in the family who should be mentioned, such as Sarah Temple, Lady Dorkas and Hannah Corey Kingsbury, who brought up their children after the loss of their husbands early in life.

James H. Goodell

Enlisted in the U. S. service Sept. 4. 1862 as private in Co. B. 147th Regt. 56th Vol. Inf. to serve three years After going into camp at Washington D.
